EIGHTH GROCERY CONCERN ENTERS WHOLESALE FIELD

Well Known Men With Capital Will Open Big House in Paducah Next Month.

Bardwell and Fulton Men Are Interested.

HAVE NOT CHOSEN LOCATION

Paducah is to have another wholesale grocery to add to the seven excellent concerns of this character in the city now. Articles of incorporation will be filed within a few days by W. R. Mills, of Paducah; J. W. Turk, of Bardwell, and P. E. (Gene) Gue, dry, of Fulton, organizing the company. The paid in capital will be $50,000, which will be increased as the development of the business warrants.

The new company is composed of men of ability and will at once assume rank with the leading wholesale firms of the city. Mr. W. R. Mills is a resident of Paducah. He has been representing the Simmons Hardware company in this territory for a number of years and is a successful salesman and business man. Mr. Gue has been with Covington Bros. for a number of years and resides at Fulton. He is one of the best hustlers going out of Paducah. Mr. Turk is a capitalist of Bardwell and identified with a number of successful enterprises.

Mr. Mills will be president of the company and Mr. Gue will be the buyer. These gentlemen sever their present connections May 15, and the new firm will start business May 15. The location has not yet been definitely decided upon.

MRS. STUART DYING

Mrs. Kate Wilson Stuart, who conducted a kindergarten in this city, and formerly taught in the public schools, is believed to be dying of creeping paralysis at Riverside hospital. She has no relatives in this country, her sister residing at Glasgow, Scotland, her husband, a teacher of languages, died in this city a few years ago.

REV. D. L. NELSON

Benton, Ky., April 6.—(Special.)—The Rev. D. L. Nelson, 53 years old, a well known Christian preacher of Fair Dealing, died yesterday of tuberculosis after a lingering illness. He was a native of the county and is survived by eight children. He was buried at Fair Dealing.

SOUTH'S PROSPERITY

Washington, April 6.—President Finley, of the Southern Railway, after a trip through the south, declares that the situation is fully as favorable to the early revival of business prosperity, as that in any other section of the country.

DR. CHAMPION IS UNDER BOND FOR HIS APPEARANCE

The other three men indicted for complicity in the night rider raid on Birmingham, Marshall county, appeared in Benton today and gave bond for their appearance in circuit court. Marshall McCullom, of Kuttawa, arrested Dr. Will Champion, reputed leader of the night riders, and Dr. Champion gave bond and was not locked up.

Reports from Calloway county are that one or two night rider notices have been served since the soldiers appeared, but these can not be substantiated.

Soldiers went from Marlon to Golden Pond, Trigg county, where numerous outrages have occurred.

The telephones have been kept busy today by inquiries into reports of clashes between soldiers and night riders. Benton, Murray, Marlon and Princeton being successively mentioned as the probable scene of battle, with casualties on both sides estimated at from eight to twenty.

Mr. R. L. Barnett, organizer for the Farmers' union, went to Benton this morning.

N. Y. CENTRAL LINE TO PADUCAH SURE IN FIVE MONTHS

Will Begin Building From Southern Illinois in Few Weeks to River.

By Christmas Will be Operating Cars Into This City.

NO TROUBLE TO GET MONEY

The Big Four railroad will be running its trains into Paducah by Christmas day, according to the statement made to a prominent citizen of Paducah while in Louisville Saturday afternoon, by an attorney for the New York Central interests. The gentleman to whom the statement was made, is interested in the Paducah and Northern proposition, but was in Louisville in consultation with railroad men on other business, and after the conference the New York Central attorney took him aside and asked about the progress of the Paducah and Northern scheme.

In the interview he showed himself to be in intimate touch with the situation here, and he had maps and much other data about the city and territory, and was familiar with every phase of the local situation.

When asked if the "Big Four" was making appropriations for new extensions in view of the present conditions in the money markets, the reply was that the company could build and would construct the Paducah extension out of the operating expenses.

Local students, in close touch with the situation, are confident that Paducah is to have four and maybe five new railroads in the city in the next few years, but this is the first authentic information setting a date. The day is early enough to satisfy the most impatient.

The "Big Four" has had the Paducah extension in view for many years and many months ago made two surveys into the city and purchased the rights of way. The road crosses the Illinois Central at Parker City, Ill., but just from where the extension will be brought to Paducah is not yet announced.

With the "Big Four" in the city, it will be only a question of time when Paducah will have the other roads which have been virtually knocking at its doors for a number of years—the Burlington, the Wabash, the Frisco.

Paducah-Northern franchise.

The franchise for the Paducah Northern railroad, probably will not be presented to the council tonight, as was expected, as it has not been completed yet. However, it is hoped that it will be ready for presentation at the next meeting.

There is no doubt that the publicity of its plans has had much to do with stirring up a number of railroads that have been seeking entrances into Paducah, and it is definitely known that it has caused the absolute suspension and foregoing of the plans of the L. & N. to construct a cut off from the N. C. & St. L. near Murray, across through Mayfield into Cairo, as the Paducah and Northern obviates the necessity of such a road.

The plans of the "Big Four" propose the use of a transfer across the river, for the present, but in the event of the erection of a bridge, of course it would try to get the use of it in connection with the other lines.

MORGAN IS ILL

London, April 6.—J. Pierpont Morgan was suddenly taken ill, according to a news dispatch from Rome. Dr. Baldwin, the American, was summoned.

Nine persons were killed and five probably fatally injured and a score hurt by the collapse of the York hotel annex. The structure was old. A gas explosion is thought to be the cause.

CHARGES BRIBERY AGAINST MEMBERS OF LEGISLATURE

Frankfort Ky., April 6. (Special.)—Judge Stout this morning ordered the grand jury to investigate the charges of bribery against certain members of the legislature in connection with the senatorial race. He says it is commonly reported that they did not carry out the wishes of their constituents and that bribery was responsible.

Text of Judge Reed's Charge to the Grand Jury.

Gentlemen of the Jury:

It becomes necessary in the course of this charge that I should comment on certain unfortunate conditions now existing in our state, which, I regret to say, ought to bring the blush of shame to every lover of his state and the laws under which he lives and receives protection.

At this time in almost every section of our state there exists organized bands of lawless men, who, under the cover of night and with masked faces are seeking to terrorize good citizens, destroy property, and, if necessary in the furtherance of their designs, take human life.

Gentlemen, it is a sad thought in this twentieth century, when civilization, religion, prosperity and the love of our country are supposed to have reached their zenith, that these conditions should exist, and that good citizens are made to feel that they are no longer secure in their lives and property, but we are confronted with the painful fact that they do exist, and must be met fearlessly.

As an officer of the law, whose duty it is to aid in its enforcement, and to whom the public is dependent and must to a great extent rely for its enforcement, I propose to speak not however harshly, but boldly and fearlessly, concerning these conditions.

There are doubtless but few persons, if any, who do not properly sympathize with those engaged in tobacco growing and in the agricultural pursuits generally, and stand ready to condemn in all legitimate ways any measure or course towards them, whether in trade or otherwise, which would oppress them or deprive them of their just rewards, or the fruits of their toil. But no well thinking or law-abiding citizen can, or ought to, sympathize with, or even tolerate night assaults on its citizens, white or black, in utter disregard of the laws of our state, and the protection of its citizens.

Combinations, for good, are commendable, and are encouraged by the law, so I take it, that no one condemns tobacco associations, or any other peaceful methods, on the part of tobacco growers and farmers, for the betterment of their condition.

It is said, however, that the tobacco associations are in no way responsible for the prevalent lawlessness in our midst at this time. I have often so thought myself, and have so expressed myself, but we cannot gain-say the fact that the impression is gaining ground, and strongly prevails, that out of these associations grew the lawless bands now known as "night riders." At any rate, the fact confronts us, that there were no night riders until after the organization of the associations, and whether these unlawful bands and their outbreaks came from what is called by some, the "inner circle" of these associations, or whether the associations have anything to do with the lawlessness now prevailing, it is certain, that to a great extent they are held responsible therefor, either justly or unjustly, in the eyes of the public. It may be that while some year or more ago, our politicians and public speakers were denouncing on the tobacco trust and the relations of the growers thereto, they disseminated more discord and dissatisfaction among our tobacco growers and farmers than they intended, and that certain of our citizens have concluded to execute the violence, it is said, some of them then taught. In other words, these gentlemen, unwittingly, doubtless, sowed the wind from which the public is now reaping "a whirlwind."

But so far as concerns the enforcement of the law, it is wholly immaterial from what source this lawlessness springs, or has its origin, suffice it to say, it is the outgrowth of criminal combinations, whose purposes are perverted, and persons who are members thereof and engaged in carrying out the purposes and designs of such combinations, are the worst violators of the law, which could infect any civilized community, and their depre-

M'CRACKEN CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES TODAY---NIGHT RIDERS' WARNING INQUIRY

Grand Jury Empaneled This Morning at 10 O'clock and Judge William Reed Delivers a Strong Charge.

URGES THEM TO UPHOLD THE LAWS

Names of Men Who Are Responsible for Indictments Against Evil Doers--First Day's Session of the April Term.

Probably the most thorough and far reaching denunciation of night riding, its instigators and the members of the lawless bands themselves that has yet emanated from any civil officer of the state was contained in the forceful charge of Judge William Reed at the convening of the grand jury to serve at the April term of the criminal division of the circuit court, which began this morning.

The court began his charge by impressing upon the members of the jury the fact that the work before them was of the most sacred importance and that upon their actions depended whether or not the court himself and the prosecuting officers could perform their part of the duty of bringing malefactors to justice. In his remarks upon night riding Judge Reed insisted that if there was any member of the jury, who through fear, sympathy or for any reason could not do his full duty in bringing indictments against parties banding themselves together for unlawful purpose, threatening and intimidating citizens and officers of the law, he should arise from his seat and ask to be excused, and whether he cared to give his reasons for such a course or not the court would gladly allow him to go.

In reference to the tobacco growers' association the court said that it has been claimed by the managers that it had nothing to do with night riding and that he himself had so believed and expressed himself on other occasions, yet the fact remains that no night riding occurred until after the association was organized and that possibly the speakers denouncing the tobacco trust last fall had aroused farmers far beyond their intention, and at any rate, had sown the wind and now the public is reaping the whirlwind.

Judge Reed's charge in its entirety embraced all matters subject to inquiry by grand jury.

So thorough and complete were the instructions given that an hour's time

THE GRAND JURY.

Robert Chambers, farmer; R. S. Burnett, grocer; W. F. Cockrell, farmer; Mike Kettler, boarding house; Theo. Laigs, farmer; J. R. Doyle, farmer; J. W. Hobbs, farmer; W. H. Youker, farmer; C. M. Harrison, farmer; B. T. Humphrey, farmer; H. J. Hovekamp, farmer; John Rock, manufacturer.

was occupied by the address and throughout the entire time the jury, which is largely composed of representative farmers, gave the court rapt attention and from the expressions on their faces gave hearty endorsement. They retired to their room immediately at the conclusion of the charge and assisted by Commonwealth's Attorney John G. Lovett and County Attorney Alben Barkley, began an investigation of the jail cases.

In addition to the ordinary duties of the grand jury and the investigation of the night riding charges, there are two murder charges to be investigated and an unusually large number of prisoners in jail charged with misdemeanors and felonies. These cases under the law and the court's instructions must be taken up first and it is probable that a week or more will elapse before the inquiry into the sending of threatening letters and the alleged formation of the kuklux will be begun.

The officers of the grand jury are: B. J. Hovekamp, foreman; C. M. Harrison, sheriff; John Rock, clerk.

The only business transacted by the jury this morning was the organization for business, B. J. Hovekamp, being chosen foreman, C. M. Harrison, sheriff, and John Rock, clerk. This afternoon the body began active work taking up the jail cases first.

Tomorrow morning the petit jury will be empaneled and the work of trying the cases now on the docket begun. The murder charge against Alex. Wade, and some robbery charges are on the docket and probably will be tried. The murder charge against Monroe Bacon is docketed for Thursday.

Court Orders.

After the grand jury had been empaneled and the reports of the various civil officers were received and sworn to, the appearance docket of civil cases was called and a large number of orders made. The following judgments were entered:

S. Langsdorf vs. Sauderson & company, $64.25.
Bernheim Distilling company vs. Lee Robertson, $146.
M. J. Ryan vs. Lee Robertson, $270.
Friedman-Keller vs. G. A. Chandler, $84.97.
Templeton vs. Hart, $63.
Jones vs. Roberts, $800.
Friedman, Keller company vs. A. A. Adkins, $52.55.
Harris, Davis company vs. S. L. Dale, $462.22.
M. E. Mallory vs. W. W. English, $95.15.
Scudder-Gale company vs. W. S. O'Brien, $424.43.
Commonwealth vs. G. A. Chandler, forfeiture, $100.

The following cases were dismissed: Locomotive Engineers' association vs. Eva B. Winfree; Flora Tyree vs. L. Earl Griffith; Friedman, Keller & company vs. Stith & Vincent.

The mandate of the court of appeals was filed in the cases against the Mechanics and Farmers bank and the N. C. & St. L. railroad, charged with failing to have the word "incorporated" displayed in front of the offices. Both concerns were fined at the last term of court, but the lower court's decision was reversed by the court of appeals and the actions were dismissed.

BENTON IN GALA ATTIRE TODAY IN HONOR OF GUESTS

Benton, Ky., April 6.—(Special.)—The bright spring weather brought what is conceded the largest crowd that ever came to this place on "Tater day," which is the annual spring festival in Marshall county. The first Monday in April, which is county court day, has long been set apart as a time when Marshall county farmers bring their seed potatoes to town to be sold and by 10 o'clock this morning the court square was well lined with wagons loaded with the vegetables, and perched on each wagon the owner energetically cried out the superiority of his particular kind.

Several street fakirs held prominent positions on the corners, while the small boy and his tub of red lemonade made his first appearance for the season. A detachment of the Salvation Army from the Paducah post was also here and a number of services were held.

In the afternoon R. L. Barnett, the state organizer for the Farmers' union, spoke to a large crowd in the court house. He has made several speeches here and the organization has a strong membership in the county.

CHAS. R. ROSE ILL

Word was received here that Charles R. Rose is critically ill of rheumatism at Springfield, Ill., and his sister, Mrs. James P. Smith, went to Springfield yesterday to be at his bedside. Mr. Rose is chief clerk in the office of his father, who is secretary of the state of Illinois.

JUDGE CANTRILL DEAD

MERRY WIDOWS IN CHURCH.

Since the spring millinery with the broad brims and flower gardens of the "Merry Widow" hats has come out, the ministers of the churches are facing the same old problem. Last night the Rev. M. E. Dodd, pastor of the First Baptist church, told the deacons of the church he considered passing a resolution, asking the women in the congregation to remove their hats during the service. Dr. Dodd heartily endorsed the resolution, and hoped that it would be passed this week, and become effective next Sunday. In commenting on the problem Dr. Dodd said: "If the few hats I have seen are a sample of the spring's millinery, it is not a ludicrous problem, but a serious one."

LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE

Grahamville, April 6. (Special.)—Grahamville's Law and Order league was organized Saturday, and all the prominent citizens and farmers were charter members. Much enthusiasm was evinced at the meeting and Dr. S. Z. Holland was elected president unanimously, and Robert Graham was chosen vice president.

Grain Market.

St. Louis, April 6.—Wheat, 96, corn, 65; oats, 53 1/2.

CHANCELLOR ASQUITH GOES TO BIARRITZ TO ACCEPT PREMIERSHIP OF ENGLAND

Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman Resigns on Account of Ill Health and King Acts.

London, April 6.—Chancellor of Exchequer Asquith left today for Biarritz to receive from King Edward the offer of premiership and to accept it. It was officially announced that the king has accepted the resignation of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, British prime minister. Sir Henry's condition remains unchanged, according to his physician's bulletin posted. The king, in telegraphing his acceptance of the premier's resignation, conveyed an expression of regret and esteem with best wishes for Sir Henry's recovery.

The king summoned Herbert H. Asquith, chancellor of exchequer, and the latter will start for Biarritz, where the king is sojourning.

The chancellor, who has been acting premier in the place of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, called a meeting of the cabinet to submit the premier's resignation and discuss the course of business.

TAFT AT OMAHA

Omaha, April 6.—Department Commander Gardner and his full staff met Secretary Taft on his arrival here today. He will speak tonight.

EVENING SUN IS OFFICIAL PAPER OF PADUCAH NOW

At the regular meeting of the lower board of the general council tonight the communication will be submitted by the city attorney appointing the Paducah Evening Sun, the official city paper for the year. At the same time Mayor James P. Smith will report the resignation of Councilman David Flournoy and the appointment of B. W. Cornelson to fill the vacancy.

The ordinance apportioning the river front space will also be reported in its revised form. It is probable also that the Paducah and Cairo Interurban line will ask for a franchise.

BARN IS BURNED

Sharp, April 6.—(Special.)—The barn of John Critt Story, a tobacco grower, residing two miles from Sharp, was destroyed early last night by a mysterious fire. No fire had been around the barn and it is unknown how the fire originated unless it was incendiary. Several tons of hay and much feed was destroyed. Also a calf tied in the barn was burned. The fire was fought with buckets, and the flames did not spread. The loss will be several hundred dollars.

DECEMBER SHOOTS POOR MAY BECAUSE OF HIS JEALOUSY

Pittsburg, April 6.—S. T. Gardner, a wealthy coal operator, of McKees Rocks, today shot and killed Dorothy Bradley and then probably shot himself. The Bradley girl was a chum of Gardner's daughter. He is said to have been infatuated and became jealous when a young man accompanied her to his home from church. Early today he purchased a revolver and called at the Bradley home and killed her. He is 69 years old.

ALDRICH BILL

Washington, April 6.—Representative Hill informed the president that a bill of the house shows the Aldrich bill will fall of passage. Hill told the president there is a strong sentiment for the creation of federal commission, which shall work during the congressional recess to submit a report at the next session.

Pensacola, April 6.—Street car conductors and motormen struck today in sympathy with men who were suspended and ordered to report for work three times daily.

JUDGE DENOUNCES NIGHT RIDERS AT WINCHESTER, KY.

Winchester, Ky., April 6. (Special.)—Judge Benton charged the grand jury to investigate raids, the scuffling of tobacco beds and barn burning, if denounced night riders.

Must Live Cheaply.
Louisville, Ky., April 6. (Special.)—Night riders invaded Henry county, Ind., and burned the tobacco factory belonging to Zachariah Taylor. They left a note, telling him if he did not live on $30 a month thereafter he would have trouble.

MARKET YOUR ABILITIES IN THE HIGHEST MARKET

The first essential of business success is to market your product where it brings the highest price.

If your services are the product which you are trying to market to the best advantage, you will want to reach the man of affairs, the substantial business man.

You might take a month or so and call on most of the prominent business men of Paducah, but a much quicker and more satisfactory way to place your abilities before them is through the Want Columns of THE SUN.

A newspaper, like water, soon finds its own level. THE SUN is edited, its policy is aimed, for the approval of the best element of the city. That's why it is, and always has been; true that

In Paducah More People Read The Sun Than Any Other Paper

Remember this true old saying: If you are willing to work for $10 a week, there are plenty of people willing to let you. If you want to better your condition, try a three time ad in THE SUN. It will only cost you a few cents and may mean the turning point in your career. Business men are on the lookout for bright young men and women—always.

THE REASON

Why W. H. McPherson Continues to Recommend Vinol.

First: Because it is not a patent medicine and it contains besides tonics from all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cod's livers, but without a drop of oil to nauseate and upset the stomach and retard its work; therefore, wherever old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions will do good, Vinol will do far more good.

Second: Because Vinol acts first upon the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, strengthens and tones up the digestive organs purifies and enriches the blood, and, in a natural manner, restores health and strength.

Third: Because Vinol contains no injurious drugs to react upon the system; every ingredient being named on the label, a patient knows exactly what he is taking.

Fourth: Because we never sold anything in our store that gave such universal satisfaction for old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and to build up the system after a severe sickness, and for relieving hacking coughs, chronic colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.

Try Vinol on our guarantee. W. H. McPherson, druggist, Paducah, Ky.

PRATTS WIN

DEFEAT CULLEYS 3 TO 0 IN THE FIRST GAME.

Eden Hill Stars and R. A. R.'s Cross Bats at Lincoln Avenue Grounds.

The Culleys and Pratts played an exciting baseball game at Sixth and Hubbard streets yesterday afternoon. The Pratts won the game by a score of 3 to 0, being the first shutout of the season. Snider and Gourieux formed the battery for the Culleys, and Dunbar and Hedges did a like stunt for the Pratt team. The feature of the game was the work of Dunbar in the box, who in the second inning threw nine balls, and fanned three batters. The Pratts had their eye on the ball, and led in the number of hits.

Stars Win.
The Eden Hill Stars and the R. A. R.'s played a game of baseball yesterday afternoon on the Lincoln avenue grounds, and the Stars were victorious by a score of 18 to 12. Ford and Staveley were the battery for the winners and the battery for the R. A. R.'s was Hampton and Cathey.

A MAYFIELD LEMON.

Col. Jim Lemon's post at the Mayfield Messenger office, is moved to whites these lines to Judge Lightfoot:

Needs No Gatling Gun.
Away down in old McCracken,
Where the mighty waters run,
Judge Lightfoot is loudly calling
For the latest Gatling gun.

Early in the morning he talks,
And laughs and has his fun,
But when the shades of night come on
He calls for the latest Gatling gun.

When the "night riders" are named
He gently smiles and calls it fun?
But when the shades of night come on
He calls for the latest Gatling gun.

The judge is a brave little man,
And was never known to run,
But when the shades of night come on
He calls for the latest Gatling gun.

He receives many strange notices,
And believes them only sent in fun,
But when the shades of night come on
He calls for the latest Gatling gun.

The Judge need not be alarmed,
In darkness and in sun,
The people are his loyal friends,
He needs no Gatling gun.

84 COUNTIES TO VOTE ON SALOONS

Big Fight in Illinois Culminates Tomorrow.

Fate of Nearly Two Thousand Saloons Depends on Result of Tuesday's Elections.

SPRINGFIELD'S BITTER FIGHT

Springfield, Ill., April 6.—Up and down the entire state of Illinois the rumble of the water wagon is heard. Last night the anti-saloon campaign in 84 counties is practically closed, and the titanic struggle between the brewery and anti-saloon forces is near an end. The magnitude of the contest to be waged at the polls Tuesday can best be obtained from the following list of cities which will vote on the saloon issue:

Springfield, Champaign, Bloomington, Paris, Decatur, Danville, Galesburg, Cairo, Kewanee, Moline, Rockford, Rock Island, Freeport, Kankakee, Aurora, Pontiac, Elgin, Joliet, Waukegan, Urbana, Clinton, Pekin, Canton, Monmouth, Paxton, DeKalb, Belvidere, La Grange, Lincoln, Carlinville, Taylorville, Pana, Staunton, Vandalia, Litchfield, Mattoon, Charleston, Shelbyville, Virden, Dwight and many others.

Election in 1,100 Townships.

Of the total of 1,265 townships in Illinois, 1,100 will vote on the saloon question Tuesday. In the Springfield district twenty counties under township organization and five others under precinct organization will vote. Eleven of the twenty will vote in every township. Three others will vote in every township but one. The fight will affect 250 saloons in Sangamon county and a total of 365 in this district, while the total for the state will reach nearly double that number. From 4,000 to 5,000 speeches have been made in the state, among the prominent orators participating being Seabourne Wright, of Georgia; Gov. J. Frank Hanley, of Indiana; Assistant Attorney General Trickett, of Kansas, and M. A. Waterman, of Kansas City, all speaking against the saloon. Clarence S. Dayow, of Chicago, and others spoke for the saloons.

Bitter Fight in Springfield.

Springfield has had a characteristic struggle, one of the bitterest, in fact. In the state, this being the largest city, with a population of 60,000, and 12,000 voters registered. The last effort of the brewery interests to prevent the issue going on the ballot failed when Judge Thompson, of the circuit court, denied the liquor men a writ of prohibition to prevent submission of the issues. All the campaigners have spoken here. The women, under the leadership of Mrs. Susan Lawrence Dana, have made a remarkable fight for local option. They have abandoned the plan to serve coffee and sandwiches at the polls.

NEWS OF KENTUCKY

A Notable Term.

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 6.—Circuit court adjourned after a six weeks' term, which is regarded as one of the most important which has been held in this county in many years, it being notable in many ways.

There were 39 trials by jury, to say nothing of the dozens of cases which were compromised, continued or settled by being submitted to the court. The commonwealth secured a round sum in fines for various offenses, the highest of these being that of $500 paid by Charles Hanratty, of Clarksville, for the shooting and wounding of T. W. Wootton. The grand jury returned about 80 indictments, among them being four night riding, i. e., Matt Tholson, colored, Dr. Willis W. Durham and J. W. Weaver, of this county, and Herman Richard Crenshaw, of Trigg county.

The first conviction to be secured for writing of anonymous letters was that of Rob Wood, a young farmer, who has paid his fine of $100 and court costs and is now in jail serving a three months' sentence.

Before leaving here Judge Cook, whose home is at Murray, Calloway county, was asked what steps would be taken by the courts of that county in reference to the night rider troubles which have assumed such a serious phase there. Judge Cook stated that the regular term of the circuit court there would meet Monday week.

Prof. Crabbe's Illness Alarming.
Frankfort, Ky., April 6.—Friends of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Crabbe are considerably worried over his condition. Superintendent Crabbe has been confined to his apartments here for the past week, and fears are entertained that he is down for a hard battle with typhoid fever. He is said to have great trouble sleeping, owing to his overwrought nervous condition. It was said that he had so far showed no improvement.

Bennett Wins Race.
Greenup, Ky., April 6.—Conventions to select a Republican candidate for congress were held in the thirteen counties composing the Ninth Kentucky district. Congressman Bennett, who resides here, is advised that all of the counties have instructed for him and he will be nominated at the district convention, which meets at Grayson April 8, without opposition. Congressman Bennett is at present chairman of the Ninth district and will likely be a candidate to succeed himself.

DON'T WAIT

Take Advantage of a Paducah Citizen's Experience Before It Is Too Late.

When the back begins to ache, Don't wait until backache becomes chronic; Till serious kidney troubles develop; Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Profit by a Paducah citizen's experience. J. W. Wootan, retired, of 1403 Burnett street, Paducah, Ky., says: "About seven years ago I gave a statement for publication telling of the great merit of Doan's Kidney Pills and what they had done for me after other remedies had failed. I was at that time a sufferer from kidney trouble and had been for several years. My rest at night was greatly broken and my health was much run down. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply at Dr. Bois, Son & Co.'s drug store. I took them as directed and was greatly benefited. I now think even more highly of this remedy than I did at first as it has stood the test of time." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Atlanta, Ga., April 6.—Miss Ethel Roosevelt, daughter of the president, stood at the throttle of the Atlanta and West Point train when it steamed into Atlanta. She had been its engineer all the way from Newnan, and had brought it into the terminal depot here just six minutes ahead of schedule.

"I'm so sorry it's over with," she said to Engineer John T. Still, when the train slowed down, and came to a standstill under the shed. "This has been the jolliest hour of my whole life. I guess I'm the only president's daughter who ever ran an engine."

TROOPS QUELL LISBON RIOTS

Several Killed and Wounded in Fights.

Monarchist Coalition Majority Is Assured—99 Deputies Elected So Far.

REPUBLICAN CHRY. OF FRAUD.

Lisbon, April 6.—The elections here, which were conducted peacefully with the exception of minor disorders in some of the disaffected districts, were followed by serious rioting, which was put down by most vigorous action on the part of the police and troops.

The rioting broke out in different parts of the city, as though by a preconcerted plan. Troops which had been patrolling, and others that had been held in reserve, were immediately ordered into action and they charged the mobs that in places filled the streets, but without effect.

The rioters used clubs, stones and whatever weapon was at hand, and the troops were obliged to fire upon them, killing and wounding a number. This determination on the part of the authorities seemed to have the desired effect and shortly the mobs were well dispersed.

At a late hour most of the Republican voters had gone to their homes, but a band of youths continued to demonstrate before the churches. They confined their disorders, however, to shooting, and a recurrence of any serious disturbances during the remainder of the night did not seem probable.

A large monarchist coalition majority, composed of the two old "rotative" parties, the nationalist-clerical and tranquil groups, is assured. Ninety-nine out of one hundred and forty-six deputies to be chosen, are already reported elected, and are monarchists.

The Republicans, who had but two seats in the dissolved parliament, increased their representations to possibly twenty. In Lisbon they swept the popular sections of the city, but the gerrymanders in the outside districts offset in a measure this advantage. The Republican leaders are raising the cry of "fraud."

Gossip From the National Capital.

(United Press.)

Washington, D. C., April 6.—Things aren't what they used to be in the senate since "Pitchfork Ben" Tillman has been compelled to take a vacation owing to ill health.

The senior senator from South Carolina occupies a somewhat anomalous place in the upper house. Although he has spent thirteen years hunting trouble and joyously welcoming the chance to lambaste anything or anybody when opportunity offers, there is no member of congress that is so universally esteemed for his bluntness of heart and mind. Even those violently opposed to his views admire his blunt, direct, but without, temperamentally kindly, mannerisms.

Therefore the news from Senator Tillman's home that he was suffering from a nervous breakdown and might not be able to resume his seat at this session occasioned more than passing concern. Aside from the personal feeling of affection in which he is held, his keen insight into public questions, and the fearless directness with which he champions or attacks every matter of importance before the senate makes his absence there a distinct loss.

Very rarely is Senator Tillman now referred to as uncouth, raw, illiterate and headstrong—adjectives that once were thought to be aptly descriptive. They no longer hold good, because time has proven that his bellicose, brutally blunt and unpolished attitude is merely a cloak that covers an active mind, a brain that is eminently masterful, a tongue that commands rhetorical but rugged speech and the bright polish of satiric innuendo and invective. Beneath the skin of the roaring lion is discerned the lamb.

Senator Tillman is one of the traditions of the senate—but he is more than a ghostly apparition—he is eternally on the job. If some question comes up in the senate that has a suspicion of a joker in it, whether it concerns Maine, or California, or South Carolina, he'll get on his feet and reach for his pitchfork and dig away until the light is let in. And the pitchfork is sharp, and no respecter of persons.

There is a genuine and deep-seated fear throughout the senate that when Tillman does return his physical condition may cause a change from the scrappy, hunting-trouble Ben of yore.

Overman's Dismissal.

The colleagues of Senator Overman, of North Carolina, are telling how he barked up the wrong tree the other day in Salisbury.

While a negro bootblack was glossing the senator's pedal extremities, Overman thought he saw an opportunity to improve the shining minute by educational conversation.

"Sam," he queried, "tell me, do you know who's governor of this state?"

Sam was nonplussed. After some head scratching, he owned up: "Deed, boss, I don't know."

Whereupon the senator proceeded to administer a lecture on the negro's woeful ignorance. Swelling with the consciousness of a duty well done, and with his shoes newly shined, he was just about to depart, when Sam,

bowing to his superior wisdom, demanded:

"Boss, can you tell me who all's governor of Mississippi?"

For the life of him Senator Overman couldn't just at that moment remember who was governor of Mississippi. He walked away crestfallen, and now blushes every time the incident is referred to.

Wrote to Uncle Sam.

Some weeks ago in this correspondence there was a reference to the $10,000,000 fund waiting in the United States treasury for claimants of damages to southern property by federal soldiers during the civil war. The opinion was hazarded that there were probably many families in the south rightfully heirs to this legacy but who had never known of the sum to which they were entitled.

A letter recently reached the Washington office of the United Press—addressed simply "Uncle Sam"—from a woman in southwestern Kentucky detailing the damages done to her father's property during the war, and for which there had never been any restitution. The writer pathetically recited the devastation of the farm house, destruction of crops, store of grain, imprisonment of horses and other horrors of the war. The letter has been turned over to the congressman from the writer's district.

About Bailey.

There is a great deal of interest in the senate as to the outcome of Joe Bailey's struggle to maintain political leadership in the Lone Star state.

The whole of Texas is reported to be in the throes of a political convulsion on the question as to whether Bailey shall be a delegate to the national convention, whether Attorney General Davidson, who led the fight against Bailey in the legislature when the latter was accused of improper relations with the Standard Oil company, shall be renominated and re-elected; whether the legislature will be controlled by the Bailey or anti-Bailey element; and, lastly, whether that new legislature shall pass a resolution of confidence in Bailey or demand his resignation from the United States senate.

Bailey opened the campaign which is to make or mar his political future in Fort Worth last week. From now on until May 2 he will speak six days in the week throughout the state.

Since grave charges were made against the Texas senator last year he has continually been waging warfare to down the distrust they raised—although the charges were never substantiated.

Bailey has had a brilliant career. Until last year he was the idol of the entire state. In congress he has made an enviable record as a lawyer and statesman, and by the absolute disinterestedness of his motives. He has a wonderful magnetic personality, is a powerful speaker and has few peers as a constitutional lawyer.

His friends in the senate regret that a constituency that once voted with vociferous unanimity the pride they felt in his achievements is now split and rent with strife.

Uncle Joe.

Just as a capitol car got well under way and was gradually slipping out of the capitol grounds the other day, a small, brisk, gray-whiskered man with a slouch hat jammed down over his face and a long black cigar protruding underneath, dashed through the cold, chilly rain that was falling and energetically swung himself on the platform. He settled himself comfortably against a corner of the platform, puffed violently on the cigar until it was well alight, and then negligently pushed back the hat, disclosing the well-known features of "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

A congressman who had witnessed the speaker's astonishing agility greeted him rather reproachfully.

"Mr. Speaker," said he, "did you forget your umbrella?" "Pooh," said Uncle Joe, (it might have been that he didn't use the word "pooh")—"I never carry an umbrella; couldn't keep it if I tried anyway. Besides umbrellas are only for women and children and mollycoddles."

Protest of the Fat Man.

"My friends," said the fat man plaintively, "moved, I suppose by a desire to appear loose, always comment on my weight whenever they run across me. It isn't that they note my alarming change in the number of pounds I carry about, for I have been what my tailor politely calls 'substantial' these many years. By the same token I have got so that I don't find reflections on my size—that is, I'm not particularly sensitive about it. What does far me, however, is the mental vacuity evidenced by the would-be humorists. One comes to think that their impression of a person don't extend beyond his avoirdupois, and the sense of fun which leads them to voice these impressions is certainly rather primitive. And this is tiring," the fat man concluded. —New York Press.

Daily Thought.

No work is well done or healthily
done which is not enthusiastically done.—Success Magazine.

Those Filipinos, who met in convention at Manila, condemned the Taft administration and endorsed Bryan, of course, as against the government. Now, if they will tell us what they expect Bryan to do for them, we will have a line on the Nebraska's proposed policy. Are they the ones, who wish to set upon independent government, or those seeking a Japanese protectorate?

THE DAILY NIGHT RIDER.

While our local Night Rider contemporary is publishing editorials
under the caption "The Dawn of Res-
on," decriing "Anarchy and mud dark deeds, that higher ideals of modern civilization will not permit."
It never mentions night riding in words of protest, but its whole news
policy is devoted in spirit and language to the encouragement of the practice and defense of those charged with the crime.

At no time was this spirit more apparent than in yesterday's account of the arrest of the men indicted for complicity in the Birmingham raid.
A description of the supposed entrance of the sheriff with the prisoners into Benton from Birmingham ran in this wise: "Like coming from a pleasant outing with accused men
and officers alike jolly and joking,
each other, Sheriff Pete Eley and Deputy Sheriff Will Eley arrived in town late this afternoon with eight
of the eleven alleged night riders,
who had been indicted, as their prisoners. The sight that greeted citizens of Benton in the place of shackled
and chained men, was a merry
laughing crowd of ten horsemen,
that appeared like so many prosperous Kentucky planters on their way to a county fair."

Two purposes were evidently in view in the writing of that story.
One was to create the impression that the grand jury investigation in Marshall county was a farce; and the other to make the prisoners feel good and "take the paper." The whole story was a beautiful work of imagination, and had the writer known the truth and actually been in Benton, as the date line inferred, he would have known that only one of the "prisoners" went to Benton, at all, and the Daily Night Rider could have spared
the eight indicted men the vivid,
though imaginative, description of their entrance into the county seat in charge of the sheriff. They gave bond to the sheriff at Birmingham.

But this is not all; Friday the same paper said this about the presence of troops at Murray: "Serious
threats to destroy the Regle rehand-
ling plant here prompted County Judge Wells to ask for troops."
Had the Night Rider interviewed Judge Wells as The Sun did it could have quoted him as The Sun did, as saying that it was the outrages committed against the persons and property of the farmers of Calloway county, which induced him to ask for troops.

The purpose in saying that Judge

Wells summoned troops to protect the Regle plant was to create the impression that the authorities are taking a hand in the contest between producers and buyers, instead of merely putting down lawlessness.

The description of soldiers in "khaki" uniforms and heavy marching order, when they are in blue uniforms and light marching order, without "service tents," and wonderful stories about their disappearing "for days from Murray" when they hadn't been there "days" at the time the articles were written, are among the collection of romances the Daily Night Rider is producing.

OUR CONSULS.

In timely interest in connection
with Secretary Taft's plea for better paid consuls is the report that United States Consul Fisher has won in his contention for recognition of Chinese authority in Manchuria. It is about the first indication of consular activity in diplomatic affairs. Russia and Japan have control of the railroad
through Manchuria, Japan in the south and Russia in the north. They
by agreement extended their control
in their respective spheres over the towns in the railroad zones, thus creating Japanese and Russian municipalities in Chinese territory as the first step in land grabbing. United States and Germany protested. American interest is strongest in the south,
but the protest was made to Russia,
thus affording Japan no chance to quarrel with us, but putting her on notice of our intention. The result of this movement is to create a difference between Japan and China and strengthen the bond between the United States and China. It will now be impossible for Japan to continue her aggressive policy in Manchuria
and retain her standing at Peking at the same time. Manchuria is valuable to Japan, but China will always be a menace to her in the event of a foreign war. So much for Roosevelt's reformation of the consular service.

A NUDEPARTURE.

Enough on the Bench.

Gov. Fort of New Jersey tells this story: An old Quaker woman was witness in a case which was being tried
one day before Judge Garrison over in Jersey, and she wore a big poke bonnet which muffled her ears and prevented her hearing the lawyer's questions. Finally the lawyers appealed to the judge and he ordered
her to remove the bonnet.
"I'll do no such thing," she said,
tightly.
"I am accustomed to having my
will respected," said the judge.
"Well, I don't care if you are a judge, that bonnet stays just where it is.
"Perhaps, madam," the judge put in, ironically, "you would like to take my place as judge, too, eh?"
"Not a bit of it," she shot out.
"There are enough old women on the bench in New Jersey as it is."

The MYSTERY

By Stewart Edward White

CHAPTER XIV.

I LIVED in the place for three weeks. We were about shortly after daybreak, under way by snuff and at work before the bents began. Three of us worked on the buildings, and the rest formed a pack train carrying all sorts of things
from the shore to the valley. The men grumbled fiercely at this, but Captain Selover drove them with slight regard for their opinions or feelings.

"You're getting double pay," was his only word. "Earn it."

They certainly earned it during those three weeks. The things they brought in were astonishing. Besides a lot of scientific apparatus and chests
of chemical supplies, everything that could possibly be required had been provided by that omniscient young man. After we had built a long, low structure, windows were forthcoming,
shelves, tables, slinks, faucets, fuses,
burners, all cut out, fitted and ready
to put together, each with its proper screws, nuts, clamps or pipes ready to our hands. When we had finished
we had constructed a complete laboratory on a small scale as you could find on a college campus, even
to the stone pillar down to bed rock
for delicate microscope experiments
and hot and cold water led from the springs. And we were utterly unskilled.
It was all Percy Darrow.

I was toward the last engaged in screwing on a fixture for the generation of acetylene gas.

"Darrow," said I, "there's one thing you've overlooked. You forgot to bring a cupola and a pit weather-
cock for this concern."

After the laboratory was completed
we put up sleeping quarters for the two men, with wide porches well
screened, and a square, heavy stone
room at the end of the third week
we had quite finished.

Dr. Schenckhorn had turned with contentment to the unpacking of his chemical apparatus. Almost immediately at the close of the freight carrying he had appeared, lugging his precious chest, this time suffering the assistance of Darrow, and had camped
on the spot. We could not induce him to leave, so we put up a tent for him. Darrow remained with him by way of safety against the men, whose measure, I believe, he had taken. Now that all the work was finished, the doctor put in a sudden appearance.

"Percy," said he, "now we will have the defense built."

He dragged us with him to the narrow part of the arroyo just before it
rose to the level of the valley.

"Here we will build the stockade defense," he announced.

Darrow and I stared at each other blankly.

"What for, sir?" inquired the assistant.

"I have come to be undisturbed," announced the doctor, with owl-like, Teutonic gravity, "and I will not be disturbed."

Darrow nodded to me and drew his principal aside. They conversed earnestly for several minutes. Then the assistant returned to me.

"No use," he shrugged in complete
return: to his indifferent manner.
"Stockade it is. Better make it of fourteen foot logs slanted out. Dig a trench across, plant your logs three or four feet, blast them at the top. That's his specification for it. Go to it."

"But," I expostulated, "what's the use of it? Even if the men were dangerous that would just make them
think you did have something to guard."

"I know that. Orders," replied Percy Darrow.

We built the stockade in a day.
When it was finished, we marched to the beach, and never save in the three instances of which I shall later tell you did I see the valley again. The next day we washed our clothes and moved ashore with all our belongings.

"I'm not going to have this crew
aboard," stated Captain Selover positively. "I'm going to clean her." He himself stayed, however.

We rowed in, constructed a hasty
fireplace of stones, spread our blankets and built an unnecessary fire near
the beach.

"Clean her," grumbled Thrackles.
"My eye!"

"I'll rather round the cape," growled
Percy Darrow.

"Come, now it can't be as bad as all that," I tried to cheer them. "It can't be more than a week or ten days' job,
even if we cure her."

"You don't know what you're talking about," said Thrackles. "It's worse than the yellow jack. It's six weeks at least. Mud when we last cleaned
her?" he inquired of Handy Solomon.

"You can kiss the book on it," replied he. "Down by the line that little swab of a sand island. My eye, but don't I remember! I sweated my liver white."

They smoked in silence.

All day long we rowed back and forth from the ship to the cove, loading the contents of the hold. These by good fortune we did not have to carry over the neck of land, for just above the gravel beach was a wide ledge on which we could pile the stores. We ate aboard and so had no opportunity of seeing what Captain Selover and his men were about until evening. Then we discovered that they had collected and lowered to the beach a quantity of stateroom doors
from the wreck and had arranged the gully stove to the edge, where it awaited our assistance. We hitched
a cable to it and let it down gently.
The nigger was immensely pleased.
After some experiment he got it to draw and so cooked us our supper on
it. After supper Captain Selover rowed back to the ship.

"Engen," he had said, drawing me
aside, "I'm going to leave you with them. It's better that one of us—
I think as owner I ought to be aboard."

"Of course, sir," said I, "it's the only proper place for you."

"I'm glad you think so," he rejoined,
apparently relieved. "And anyway," he cried, with a burst of feeling, "I hate the gritty feeling of it under my feet! Solid oak's the only walking for a man."

He left me hastily as though a trifle ashamed. I thought he seemed dis-pressed, even a little furtive, and yet
on analysis I could discover nothing definite on which to base such a conclusion.

It was rather a feeling of difference from the men I had known. In my fatigue it seemed hardly worth thinking about.

The men had rolled themselves in their blankets, tired with the long day.

Next morning Captain Selover was ashore early. He had quite recovered his spirits and offered me a drink of French brandy, which I refused. We worked hard again. Again the monster returned at night to his vessel, this time without a word to any of us.

Again the men, dragged by toil, turned
to early and slept like the dead.

We became entangled in a mesh of days like these, during which things were accomplished, but in which was no space for anything but the tasks imposed upon us. The men for the most part had little to say.

"For Dios, eat is too much work,"
sighed Perdosa once.

"Why don't you kick to the old man,
then?" sneered Thrackles.

The silence that followed and the sullenness with which Perdosa responded himself to his work was significant enough of Captain Selover's
past relations with the men.

And how we did clean her. We stripped her of every stick and silver
until she sparked like an empty hull,
even her boards and running rigging
ashore. I understood now the crew's grumbling. We literally went at her with a nailbrush.

Captain Selover took charge of us
when we had reached this point. He and the nigger, and Perdosa had long since finished the installation of the permanent camp. They had built us bunks from the wreck, collecting stateroom doors for the sides and latches for the roofs, huge and solid, with iron rings in them. The bronze and iron ventilation gratings to the doors gave us glimpses of the coast through fast work. The rich inlaying of woods surrounded us. We set up on a solid rock the galley stove, with its rails to hold the cooking pots from upsetting
in a senway. In it we burned the debris of the wreck, all sorts of wood,
some sweet and aromatic and spleen-
ing in an incense of cedar. I have seen the plager boiling beans over a blaze
of sandwood fragrant as an eastern shop.

First we scrubbed the Laughing
Lass, then we painted her and redressed
and tarred her standing rigging, re-
sized and rive her running gear, slashed her masts, finally creased her and scrapped and painted her below.

When we had quite finished, we had the anchor chain dealt out to us in fathoms, and scraped, pounded and polished that. These were, indeed, days full of labor.

Being busy from morning until night,
we knew but little of what was about

us. We saw the open sea and the waves tumbling over the reef outside.
We saw the headlands and the bow of the bay and the surf with its watching
seals and the curve of yellow sands.

We saw the sweep of coast and the dowry and the strange huts we had built out of departed magnificence,
and that was all. That constituted
our world.

ANNIVERSARY

THE REV. S. B. MOORE COM-PLETES HIS FIRST YEAR.

Delivers Striking Sermon on Subject
of Ethical Service—This Congregation.

Yesterday was the beginning of the second year's ministry in Paducah of Rev. S. B. Moore. At the morning service a large congregation gave close attention to Dr. Moore's sermon on the subject "Faithful Service Commended," based on Matt. 25:21—
"Well done good and faithful servant."

The pastor spoke of the last year's work of the congregation, recalling
some of the achievements of the year,
and among other things, a substantial
reduction of the debt of the church.

The speaker commended the members for their faithfulness during the year, and their loyalty to the church
in times of emergency, when sacrifice was required. There has been a substantial increase in the membership,
a deepening of spirituality, and a general lining up of the members.

The future is full of promise if the people render only their reasonable service.

There were two additions to the membership at the morning service.

SCHOOL NOTES

In carrying out his recommendation to the school board, Supt. J. A.
Carnagey handed instruction to every teacher today asking her to hand in answers to the following questions by April 10: "Of what high school or academy are you a graduate? Of what college or normal school are you a graduate? Have you had any professional training? Where and when
have you attended summer school?
What school journals do you subscribe for? and what are your plans
for summer work during the coming vacation?"

The answers will be used as a partial basis for urging that the school board elect "growing" teachers in preference to teachers that do not try to improve themselves. Superintendent Carnagey, in his recommendations to the board, urged the necessity of having and keeping the up-to-date teachers. Professor Carnagey explained this morning that he wanted
good teachers, and did not want to waste time on any others. With the questions answered Professor Carnagey
and the school board will have
facts before them, and the qualifications of every applicant may be seen
at a glance.

The "Room-Room."

CHURCH CROWDED TO PAY RESPECTS

Many Friends Attended Funeral of Mrs. Wilhelm.

Beautiful Life Ended Saturday and Gentle Mother Borne to Her Reward.

BURIED IN OAK GROVE TODAY.

The funeral of Mrs. Ella Beadles Wilhelm, who died Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, took place this morning at 10 o'clock at the First Baptist church, the Rev. M. E. Dodd, assisted by the Rev. G. T. Sullivan, preaching the sermon. The church was filled with friends of the family, and there were numerous floral offerings. The service was beautiful and impressive, and a large concourse attended the body to the grave in Oak Grove cemetery.

The following relatives arrived yesterday and today to pay the last respect of love and honor to Mrs. Wilhelm, who was universally beloved throughout a large circle of friends and relatives: Mrs. J. H. Wright, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Minnie W. Herndon, Clarksville, Tenn.; Mrs. E. Hollinger, Mayfield; Edward Hollinger, Mayfield; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ligon, Mayfield; Mrs. L. Anderson, Mayfield; Mr. John Ligon, Mayfield; Mr. George Beadles, Fulton.

Ella Beadles Wilhelm was born at Mayfield, Ky., March 13, 1861, the daughter of William and Mary Beadles. Shortly after her birth her parents moved to Paducah, where she resided continuously until her death. Her father, Hon. William Beadles, of the late years of the civil war founded the First National bank of Paducah, of which institution he was president up to his death in 1893. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Beadles, was of one of the most prominent families of the south.

In girlhood Mrs. Wilhelm joined the First Baptist church of this city. And being active in her attendance upon church duties until her increasing family duties absorbed the most of her energies and time but she was even upon her death bed interested in that looked to the uplifting of humanity and spread of the gospel. Even in girlhood she never cared for the frivolities of society and though belonging to one of the oldest and wealthiest families chose the domestic rather than the social circle as the scene of her activities.

On October 19, 1887, she was married to James E. Wilhelm, the president of the Register Newspaper company. This union was sanctified by the birth of four children. Ella B., William B., Amanda and James E. Wilhelm, Jr., all of whom survive their mother.

Beadles her husband and children. Mrs. Wilhelm is survived by one sister, Mrs. George W. Babus, of Birmingham, Ala., and many near relatives in Mayfield, Wingo and Fulton.

Helen May Campbell, the 19-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Campbell, died Saturday afternoon at 2:40 o'clock at their home in Beaumont, Tex., of spinal meningitis. The body was brought here and taken to the old home at Metropolis this morning on the Dick Fowler. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Metropolis.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL ON IN MECHANICSBURG

The Rev. J. W. Cantrell, of the Mechanicburg Methodist church, assisted by the evangelist, the Rev. J. B. Kendall, held services in that church yesterday. The subject was "A High Day in Zion." At both the morning and evening services a number of conversions were made. The church was filled for both services. Services will be conducted every afternoon at 2 o'clock and every evening at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. J. B. Kendall for the next two weeks.

At Grace Episcopal.

In his sermon last night at Grace Episcopal church, the Rev. David C. Wright enumerated the stones that would have to be rolled away from the sepulcher before the Christ could come into the lives of his people as a living power. It was an earnest and eloquent exhortation along practical lines of daily living and thought. "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" was sung as the morning offertory by Miss Langstaff and Mr. D. MacMillen. Miss Ruby Lamb sang the evening offertory.

TROOPS AND RIOTERS

Madrid, April 6.—Portuguese troops and rioters fought desperately in the Pedro square, Lisbon, this afternoon, according to dispatches. The battle was a climax to small riots, which began yesterday during an election.

ASLEEP IN THE CELLAR

Dismay was caused at the home of the friendless yesterday afternoon for several hours over the disappearance of John Hardwell, 8 years old. After a search of the house from garret to cellar he could not be found and the police department was notified to keep a watch for the missing boy. Miss Raper, the matron, concluded he had strolled from the home and would return or be found by the police and brought back. Nevertheless there was anxiety at the home when up came John Hardwell from the cellar, rubbing his eyes and unconscious of the worry his disappearance had caused. John went on an exploration yesterday and was investigating every nook and corner of the basement when he became sleepy. He crawled into a small apartment and went to sleep, and in the search they were within several feet of him.

BENTON MAN ARMED

A striking example of what awaits night riders should they attempt to invade the town of Benton was noticed by people on the platform of the Union station after the arrival of the 1:15 train from the south this afternoon. A young man, apparently quiet and unassuming, was standing talking to Patrolman Doyle and a number of others, while waiting for a street car when some one in passing brushed against the young fellow and a big army Colt's revolver fell from his hip, poked to the ground. Quick as a flash the young man stooped to recover the weapon, but the patrolman's foot was too quick for him and before he had time to explain the boy was under arrest. He was released when he showed that he was one of the company of citizens that have been sworn in as a posse to protect Benton against an invasion and had authority to go armed. The explanation proved satisfactory and the young fellow was allowed to go on his way.

PENITENT BUT THIRSTY AGAIN IN THE TOLLS.

Back in the toils of the law are Jim Doolin and Ed Paris, two offenders who have been toying with the law for some time. This time they are charged with robbery as it is alleged that the pair took $8 and a bottle of whisky and some brandy off of a farmer named Davis, while he was asleep. They were tried last Tuesday and dismissed for assisting in the stealing of a keg of beer, and when they were released Judge Cross gave them a good lecture, advising them to reform or they would go to the pen. They were penitent, but yesterday they were arrested again. Their trial will be held tomorrow morning.

"THE GREAT INEVITABLE" SUBJECT OF FINE SERMON.

"The Great Inevitable" was the subject of the evening of the Rev. M. E. Dodd, of the First Baptist church last night, and a large congregation was present. Dr. Dodd dealt on the invitation of the Bible for salvation, made his points on the value of any invitation, to what it was, and the character of the person sending the invitation. There were two additions to the church at the evening service.

Serious Charge.

La Center, Ky., April 6.—S. T. Moore, for some time a resident of this city, was arrested by the town marshal of Tuttle, Oklahoma, Tuesday night on a charge of seduction preferred against him by his 15-year-old niece, Miss Clara Mayhall. Moore, a painter and paper hanger by trade, is accused of working his will upon the girl while she and her mother were living at his home in this county, presumably about the first of last July.

The World Is Round.

A civil engineer in England who tried to prove that the earth was round proceeded in this way: He selected one of the English lakes and drove three posts in the water, leaving each post three feet above the water line and placing them, say, a mile apart. On a day when the water was very calm he sighted with his transit instrument a line from the top of the first post to the top of the third post. The line was found to pass three feet below the top of the middle post, thus proving the surface of the water was curved.

The machinery and property of the Southern Peanut company was sold by order of court this morning by Master Commissioner Cecil Reed to the Harnhart Mercantile company, of St. Louis, Mo., through its representative, E. R. Skinner, for $1,456. The sale was to satisfy a mortgage held against the concern by the Mechanics and Farmers bank. The commissioner also sold an island farm lying in the Tennessee river above Paducah to G. H. Husbands for $800. The property was sold under an action brought by G. H. Husbands against Palmer, etc.

DR. SULLIVAN'S SERMON SUNDAY AT METHODIST.

From the text "Hereby know we are the spirit of truth" and the spirit of error," 1 John, 4:6, the Rev. G. T. Sullivan preached a strong sermon yesterday morning at the Broadway Methodist church on "The Spirit Dominating the Present Age." Dr. Sullivan emphasized the various forms of the "strenuous life" today, carried to excess, as the "spirit of error" of this age. The points were well-taken and enforced with a wise conservatism calculated to impress the truth upon all. In juxtaposition he placed the things that were working for a "spirit of truth" that were antidotes for the too strenuous activities of the age, and stated that notwithstanding all the "errors" of the day, the world was growing better and stronger.

HAD A REVOLVER ON HIM, SO HE SERVES OUT A FINE.

Police Lieutenant Thomas Potter was notified last night by the marshal at Joppa that like Bowman, colored, had skipped out on the steamer Dick Fowler last night, and left his boarding house $50 short. Detective Gourleux met the boat and Bowman was carrying a big pistol concealed. He will serve out a fine of $25 and ten days in jail before going back to the Illinois shore.

Pays $100 For Delay.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company had to pay the passengers on No. 28, Pennsylvania's "special," $100 when the train arrived at New York as a penalty for being three hours late. This is one of the trains on which an extra fare is charged for a quick run between New York and Chicago. The company, in selling a ticket, agrees to pay the passengers back $1 for every hour the train is late at its destination.

A landslide delayed it three hours near the Indiana line after leaving Chicago. Part of this was made up before reaching Pittsburgh.

The engineer at Pittsburgh had orders to speed his train to Altoona so that no more time would be lost. The special was given a clear track by dispatchers along the line, but the time lost was not made up on the Mountain Run.

The crew on the middle division had no better luck, and before the train reached New York the conductor had given the 135 passengers slips calling for $3 each in cash.

This is the largest amount the Pennsylvania Company has had to rebate to its passengers since the "special" has been run. Pittsburgh Special to the Philadelphia Record.

We have the only machine of this kind in West Kentucky—but the result is what interests you. It irons smoothly. The button holes or stud holes match. Negligee shirts with buttons are ironed perfectly and without injury. Plaid bosom shirts, when ironed by this machine, come through looking like new; the "hump" is missing.

NO PROSECUTION

VICTIMS OF ELMER NICHOLSON ACCEPT A SETTLEMENT.

Millard Nicholson, His Brother, Agrees to Pay Full Amount of Bogus Checks.

Millard Nicholson, brother of Elmer Nicholson, the Bandana merchant who left bad checks amounting to $1,500, with Paducah merchants and business men Friday, came to the city Saturday and at a meeting with the victims of his brother, Mr. Nicholson agreed to pay the full amount lost, on condition that no prosecution be made. Accordingly the warrants issued in the police court will be filed away.

Mr. Nicholson stated while here, that he does not know where his brother has gone and had no knowledge of his whereabouts since he left the country after cashing the worthless checks.

The Nicholson brothers have conducted a general store at Bandana several years and have always enjoyed a good business. They dealt in live stock to a great extent and Elmer Nicholson secured cash on checks claiming that he was using it to buy live stock. He went to St. Louis directly afterward and there sold his wife's farm at Maplewood for $12,000.

SOUTHERN BEEF

WANTED IN PADUCAH BECAUSE OF SCARCITY OF MEAT.

Fiscal Court May Appoint Veterinarian to Inspect Tennessee Cattle.

Because of the scarcity of beef and pork, and the high prices that are prevailing, the butchers of the city have written letters to Dr. T. E. Isom, state veterinarian, of Louisville, asking permission to bring cattle over the quarantine line. A reply has been received, and the only condition whereby the cattle may be brought over the line, is to have a veterinarian appointed by the fiscal court and inspect every animal as soon as it is received. From April 1 to December 1 the cattle from the south are not allowed to be shipped north of the quarantine line, which runs through Tennessee. As meat may be bought cheaper south of the line, it is probable that the butchers may carry the request to the fiscal court for a veterinarian to inspect the stock.

GUNFIGHTER WANTS TO MEET VICTIM IN HADES.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 6.—Henry McDonald, the saloon keeper, who shot and killed Detective Chas. He says he wants to die and "go to hell," where he will have a game of euchre with Dwyer. Prosecuting Attorney Cooper preferred a charge of murder in the first degree against him, and he will be tried at once if he recovers.

LENDLER & LYDON

Are You Sick?

Much sickness is due to a weak nervous system. Yours may be. If it is, you cannot get well until you restore nerve strength. Your nervous system is nature's power house; the organs of your body get their power from it. If the power is not there, the action of the organs is weak, and disease (sickness) follows. Dr. Miles' Nerve cures the sick because it soothes the irritated and tired nerves and gives the system a chance to recuperate. Try it, and see if you do not quickly feel its beneficial effect.

"I was given up to die by a leading doctor. Got one of Dr. Miles' Nerve and found that Dr. Miles' Nerve did it for me. From the very first dose I took I got better. I am better now than I have been for years, and do all my own work on the farm. That's what Dr. Miles' Nerve has done for me, and I am glad to recommend it to others."

CONSULS' PAY

SHOULD BE INCREASED SAYS SECRETARY TAFT.

Urges Ship Subsidy for Steamers From Pacific Coast to Orient.

Chicago, Ill., April 6.—William H. Taft, secretary of war, passed his second busy day in Chicago Saturday with another round of receptions, luncheons and speeches, windup with the banquet of the Commercial club of Chicago at the Congress hotel.

The bulk of Mr. Taft's speech was devoted to a discussion of conditions in the Orient, especially as they affect American trade in China, Japan, Korea and the Philippines. He led up to this by discussing briefly the progress of construction on the Panama canal.

The secretary then turned to China, refusing briefly to the "energy and anxiety that Japan and Germany are showing with reference to the Chinese trade."

"Where we have one consular representative at work," he said, "Japan and Germany had thirty or forty." He added: "I stop for a moment to point out the utter fatuity of the policy of the United States in respect to the salaries and housing of her consular and diplomatic representatives through out the world. Could anything be more unrepulsive, more plutocratic, than a system of salaries and allowances that bar from the diplomatic corps every one save millionaires."

Mr. Taft a little later digressed to urge the propriety of a ship subsidy for a line of steamers between the Pacific coast, Japan and China.

The Jumping Off Place.

"Consumption had me in its grasp; and I had almost reached the jumping off place when I was advised to try Dr. King's New Discovery; and I want to say right now, it saved my life. Improvement began with the first bottle, and after taking one dozen bottles I was a well and happy man again," says George Moore, of Grimesland, N. C. As a remedy for coughs and colds and healer of weak, sore lungs and for preventing pneumonia New Discovery is supreme, 50c and $1.00 at all druggists. Trial bottle free.

FIRST EVIDENCE TAKEN IN VANDERBILT DIVORCE SUIT.

New York, April 6.—The first testimony in the divorce suit of Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt against her husband, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, which was filed in the supreme court, was taken before Referee David McClure. Howard Kemper, the personal valet of Mr. Vanderbilt, was the one witness called. The fact that the valet did not depart with his employer on the Mauretania caused some comment, but his appearance before the referee would indicate that the reason he did not do so was the desire of the parties to the action to rush matters through. Whether he appeared under subpoena or by arrangement was not shown. When the hearing was adjourned none of the persons interested would talk.

BOMB IN SULTAN'S HAREM.

LEAVES COUNTY

ONE COLORED LAND OWNER GOES TO POPE COUNTY, ILL.

Austin Howard Receives Night Rider Warning and Sells Land Near Cecil.

Austin Howard, an aged negro farmer, of near Cecil, is the head of the first family to leave McCracken county for fear that they would be attacked by night riders, having received a warning last week. Howard has lived in the vicinity from which he is now a refugee many years, and has always been law-abiding and peaceable. Soon after he was warned he went into Pope county, Ill., and succeeded in exchanging his farm in Kentucky for one in that county, left Saturday for the latter place. Judge Lightfoot advised Howard to stay here, assuring him protection, but the old man rather than take chances, left the county.

Suffering and Dollars Saved.

E. S. Loper, of Marilla, N. Y., says: "I am a carpenter and have had many severe cuts healed by Huckle's Arnica Salve. It has saved me suffering and dollars. It is by far the best healing salve I have ever found. It heals burns, sores, ulcers, fever sores, eczema and piles. 25c at all drug gists."

The English Penny.

At the rate of four tons a day the British mint has been turning out copper coins in an attempt to cope with the famine in pennies in London and other centers. The stringency always becomes most active toward the end of each quarter. Nearly all the English gas companies have accepted the penny-in-the-slot system of selling gas. The automatic meters are emptied at the end of each quarter. The popularity of this system of supplying illumination is shown by the fact that during 1907 pennies weighing 1,336 tons were taken from the meters in London. This means an average of 400,000 pennies a day.

UNITED STATES' AID EFFECTIVE

Russia Will Recognize the Sovereignty of China.

Refusal to Recognize Authority of Any Nation Except China at Harbin Brings China to Issue.

CONSUL FISHER IS VICTORIOUS

St. Petersburg, April 6.—The Russian government is considering the issuance of a statement formally recognizing China's sovereignty in Manchuria insofar as is consistent with the purely administrative rights of Russia in the railroad zone. This is thought to be the best way out of the Harbin difficulty, which has been brought to an issue by the refusal of Fred D. Fisher, the American consul at Harbin, to recognize the Russian administration of this territory.

Russian diplomacy is anxious at all hazards to remove the impression that the reorganizing of the administration of Harbin and Chialin involves further encroachments upon the integrity of Manchuria, and there is reason to believe that Russia would be willing to receive suggestions as to the wording of a statement acceptable to the United States and the other powers interested, which, while clearly defining the status quo under existing treaties, would permit Russia to institute necessary reforms in the administration of the railroad zone.

Those reforms are a prerogative of Russia under the treaty of 1896.

Railroads Responsible.
From conversations with foreign officials and others interested it would seem that the railroad administration rather than the foreign officers is responsible for the new regulations which have been promulgated at Harbin without full appreciation of the possibilities of international complications. These regulations found general disfavor at Harbin, and the Russian residents were the first to protest against them.

The press comment of today raises the protest of Consul Fisher to an international incident of the first rank, and several of the prominent newspapers of the capital devote their leading articles to the matter.

The Novoe Vremya says it is inconceivable that the American protest can be directed against Russian privileges already recognized and that it must refer to some new pretensions, including the Russian scheme, the details of which are imperfectly known here.

INDIGESTION.

With its companions, heart burn, flatulence, torpidity of the liver, constipation, palpitation of the heart, poor blood, headache and other nervous symptoms, sallow skin, foul tongue, offensive breath and a legion of other ailments, is at once the most widespread and destructive malady among the American people. The Hain's treatment will cure all these troubles. See bottle. Sold by J. H. Oehlschlaeger, Lang Bros., C. O. Ripley.

TEXT OF JUDGE REED'S CHARGE

dations at this time in many portions of the state, have reached the limit of forbearance and endurance.

While it is fully appreciated how difficult it is for those whose duty it is to enforce the law, to reach men who will assemble in the middle of the night, when all peaceful citizens are in repose, cover their faces with masks and ride forth under the cover of darkness, and call from their homes men unprotected and unprepared to defend themselves, lash their persons with whips and switches, burn or destroy their property, and in necessary in the furtherance of their designs, take the lives of their victims, yet nothing should be left undone to bring them to a well merited punishment, and greater should be the effort of every good citizen to accomplish this end.

The acts and conduct of the men belonging to these lawless bands, if judged by themselves, in their sober senses, and unexcited moments, when reason and common sense is allowed full sway, could only be characterized by themselves, as brutal and cowardly, hence it is not surprising that their acts and conduct in the estimation of all decent and law-respecting citizens, is horrifying. Their methods and lawless conduct ought and must be suppressed. The boldest burglar or robber is not guilty of a more heinous offense against law and order and the peace of society than the members of these lawless bands, and it behooves the members of the tobacco associations, as well as all other good citizens—terrorized though they may be—to give every possible aid and assistance in bringing about their punishment and restoring the majesty of the law.

As a matter of course, these "lawless bands" must in the nature of things prove of short duration, for an intelligent and peace-loving public cannot, and will not tolerate them for any considerable period of time. The persons composing them for the present, under the influence of a bloody oath, which it is said the members are required to take, may feel a certain security from deserved prosecution and punishment, but in my opinion they wholly misjudge the situation, the hackneyed phrase "murder will out" will doubtless prove no exception to some, if not most of them. The situation is more to be deplored for the reason that doubtless many thoughtless young men are being drawn into these unlawful combinations, and have engaged in some of the terrible outbreaks, with which the country has recently been afflicted, and have thereby blighted their lives and ruined their happiness. It is doubtless not known by these thoughtless persons, that the mere fact of becoming a member of these criminal bands is of itself an indictable offense, and that each of them becomes responsible for the acts of all the others, while engaged in the prosecution of the criminal purpose.

Under the statutes of Kentucky every person engaged in these raids and outbreaks, where the design is to injure person or property, is indictable and punishable by confinement in the penitentiary of the state, and where life is destroyed, each one is guilty of the crime of murder, and punishable as a murderer, so that if the leaders of these unlawful combinations would only stop to reflect, they can but readily see that such practices will not be tolerated by an intelligent public for any considerable period of time, and the sooner these depredations cease, the better it will be for all connected therewith, for each person so engaged puts himself under the ban of the law, and may be indicted and punished without regard to the lapse of time, for such prosecutions are not barred by limitation, but those inculpated may be taken and tried at any time.

Within the last thirty days, a band of these "outlaws" in number estimated at about 150, visited the town of Birmingham, in Marshall county, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock in the night time, shot to death two negroes, one an aged man and the other a small child, and wounded six others, and then went away. These negroes could not possibly have had any connection with any tobacco trust or tobacco association, and my information is that most of them, or some of them at least, were inefficient and harmless negroes and were making as good citizens as their race could furnish, and why these negroes should have been shot to death and their humble homes riddled with bullets, is beyond comprehension, unless it be that tobacco barns of supposed adversaries had become scarce and the mob required something on which to feed. At any rate it is horrible to contemplate, that in a civilized community, and in Kentucky, where the boast has ever been of the chivalry and bravery of its men, and their readiness to meet a foe in the open, and face to face, that such a number of men could be found that would engage in such a brutal and cowardly outrage, and sad indeed is the thought that each of these thoughtless and reckless men engaged in this mob is guilty of the crime of murder, the highest crime known to law, and can be taken and tried, without limitation as to time, and his punishment fixed at death or confinement in the penitentiary for life.

It has often been stated and I have a long time been of the opinion, that the stability of our governmental institutions and the proper enforcement of our laws, were in a greater degree dependent on our rural population and sparsely settled communities, than that of the crowded cities, where proximity and easy access of one citizen to another can so easily breed and generate evil disorder, and political corruption. Hence the surprise at present conditions in Kentucky is greatly intensified, when we contemplate that the existing conditions of outlawry, and the lawless and unpardonable outbreaks mentioned, springs from that portion of our citizenship on which the public have been taught to rely for its safety.

If our tobacco growers and farmers have so far forgotten themselves, as to foment and fan into existence among themselves a spirit of anarchy and lawlessness, what have we to hope for, or to expect, from crowded cities with a dense, mixed and often questionable population? If the present conditions and the spirit recently manifested by what has always been and what should be regarded as our best population are to continue, then we may as well sigh and acquiesce to law, good order and liberty.

But I repeat that I do not believe, I cannot believe that any respectable number of our tobacco growers, either in, or out, of the associations, belong to, or are connected with, these lawless bands. To so believe, would be to believe that we have reached that point in our history, where law and order shall no longer reign and that anarchy and the terrors of the mob shall become supreme and I cannot but believe that when reason assumes its sway, that every man who has been thoughtless enough and reckless enough, to connect himself with these lawless bands, and to engage in these unlawful and unwarranted outbreaks, will be heartily ashamed of his connection therewith, or that he has entertained a sentiment in accord with such conduct.

Gentlemen, in conclusion of what I have to say to you on this subject, I desire to impress on you, that you are an arm of the law, and of this court, and more depends upon your action and fidelity to duty than all others, for the reason that through you must come every prosecution that is instituted against these men, as well as other lawbreakers. Your commonwealth attorney, your county attorney, and the judge of this court are powerless to indict any man, and if this grand jury or any number of you shall fail to do your duty, then crime must go unpunished, and I do not hesitate to say to you, that if there is a man on this jury who feels that through fear, sympathy or cowardly, he cannot faithfully discharge the duties he assumes by becoming a member of same, then it is his duty to rise in his place, and with or without explanation, as he may choose, ask to be excused, which the court will cheerfully do, for the times and conditions that now confront us, require men that are and will be brave and fearless, in the discharge of their duties and the enforcement of the laws.

I am glad to say that up to this time, no outbreak has occurred in our county, though it is said your county judge, your sheriff and perhaps other officers, have been threatened with violence; that threatening letters have been sent to some of our citizens, hence with such a disordered and diseased sentiment as appears to prevail, an outbreak may come at any time, and even during your sessions.

Gentlemen, I am determined to do my full duty in the enforcement of the law, and fully trust and believe I will have your valuable aid and assistance in so doing.

OUR GREATEST EASTER SALE

Tomorrow morning at 8:30 we are going to open our Annual Easter Sale, but this season it will hold greater interest for the ladies than ever before, due to a fortunate purchase from one of New York's suit designers and manufacturers. There are two hundred suits in the lot which we bought from him at greatly reduced prices; they all go on sale tomorrow morning and it takes just a little money to buy one. Read the details in his letter below.

The colors are Copenhagen, blonde, raspberry, navy, royal, brown, green, black or solid white. The styles consist of the Merry Widow Suits, the new Cornell Dip or the late Butterflies. This will be the most important of all our Easter sales, because it enables you to buy a suit when you most need it and gives you also an opportunity of saving money and getting a full season's wear by purchasing it early. Read the list of reductions below. It will give you a faint idea of the tremendous opportunity this sale holds for you.

Our store will open up tomorrow morning at 8:30; then will go on sale this lot of suits that we bought so very cheap, as well as the remainder of our stock of suits, which will be reduced in price in order to make them equally as low. In connection with this sale tomorrow we are going to give special prices on Ladies' Silk Dresses. In this particular department we are exceedingly strong and never have we been in a position to show as many new and pretty styles as we have to show in our Silk Dress Department now. Sale starts tomorrow morning promptly at 8:30 o'clock, and as there are only one and two suits of some lots it would be very advisable for all of you who want a new Easter suit to be on time.

NEW YORK, April 23, 1908.

Mr. Lee Levy,
Paducah, Ky.

Dear Sir:

We have finally decided on receipt of your telegram to accept your cash offer made us on the 200 suits, and use no hesitancy in saying that, considering the excellent make and materials used in their construction, you will find them the best values ever offered to the ladies of your section. It has taken us quite some time to make up our minds, hence the delay. The suits, however, have been shipped by American Express and we feel that both of us, as well as your customers, will be greatly benefitted by these great values. No doubt the suits will reach you early Monday morning. Owing to the financial stringency here in New York we are forced at this season to make many transactions at a loss; however, this is the largest we have had this season and trust we will not be placed in this same position again.

Thanking you very much for past favors, we are Very truly yours,

(Signed)

M. PERLSTEIN.

Governor Willson Will Not Send Any Troops When They Are Not Needed.

Louisville, April 6.—"It is not my intention at present either to call an extra session of the legislature or to call out the militia and scatter the companies promiscuously over the state," said Governor Augustus E. Willson.

Governor Willson arrived in Louisville after an absence of a week in the east on business, having hurried home sooner than he at first intended on account of the restless conditions in the tobacco-growing districts of the state. He appeared to be as composed as he was when he left Louisville last Monday.

"I am keeping in touch with the situation and propose to take steps wherever necessary for the preservation of life and property," he continued. "While I believe that the leaders of the Law and Order league are sincere in their professions and are with me in spirit as to the preservation of the peace and dignity of the commonwealth, still I do not think that they are as close in touch with the prevailing conditions over the state as I am.

"I will send soldiers wherever needed. I am not going to order out the entire militia of the state, and scatter them where there is no need for soldiers. I, myself, must keep within the pale of the law. I think soldiers are not needed in Louisville, and I think they are not needed in many counties in the state. I am not going to act hastily in this matter, for I am the one on whose shoulders rests all the responsibility of calling out the soldiers. As I have repeatedly said, I have not been asleep all the time that I have been in the governor's chair, and I am still going to keep a close watch on things in the state. I really have not had time to get my bearings on things since my return."

Governor Willson was pleased with the courteous treatment extended him by Governor Charles Hughes, of New York, while he was in Albany. He said that he was quite a busy man while gone and did not have time for social affairs. He said that Governor Hughes was a most charming man and he enjoyed the little informal dinner that the New York executive gave in his honor. Governor Willson said that he thought he would get off to Frankfort Tuesday morning.

800,000 BARRELS OF BEER IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

London, April 6.—England's temperance reformers figure that Great Britain has consumed 800,000,000 barrels of beer in the past quarter of a century. The brewers themselves furnished the statistics, which may be taken as accurate down to the fraction of a barrel.

The brewers point with pride to the race their product has built up. The tectotalers are shocked by the showing.

The Metropolitan water board officials estimate that if people used beer like water—drank it, bathed in it, sprinkled the streets with it, and what not—the specific supply would last the population of 6,000,000 for 150 days. It represents the average flow of the river Thames at Teddington for 28 days.

NEEDED A MECHANIC AND NOT A PHYSICIAN.

Seattle, Wash., April 6.—Henry Harrison has had removed from his innermost recesses of his system 11 knife blades, 5 bath nails, 6 small screws, three licks and sundry other bits of hardware. Incidentally when Harrison summoned the surgeon he thought he was suffering from appendicitis. Harrison makes his living on vaudeville circuits swallowing glass.

knife blades, horseshoe nails and other articles. He is 38 years old and has been following his vocation for 20 years.

LEAPS TO DEATH WHILE TERRIFIED CROWD WATCHES.

New York, April 6.—With a terror-stricken crowd watching him pole on a high sill on the third story window of the Temple Hall apartment house at One Hundred and Twenty-first street and Lenox avenue, Benjamin J. Bernstein, a wealthy retired merchant, jumped to the pavement below and was instantly killed.
